ABSTRACT

In at least one embodiment, transaction processing systems comprise nondisk persistent memory that is utilized to commit transactions.